OSHO „Every (wo)man is in search. It may be better to say that every (wo)man is a search, a longing for something; he/she does not understand exactly what, but something is missing, something incomplete, something not entire. There is a gap and that gap allows no one to remain at rest; it asks to be fulfilled and unless it is fulfilled, you will never know who you really are. Life is small and time is moving fast. If you go on only thinking and never taking a solid step toward transformation, toward awareness, toward crystallisation, it is not going to happen on its own accord. The reality is that the moment you are absolutely total, one pointed, single minded with an undivided heart, this very thoroughgoingness is the arrival. In this totality, in this intensity, the flower blossoms.“
